Raising concerns and making complaints

Procedure for clients

Introduction

- 1.1 Mills & Reeve LLP (“the firm”) is committed to providing outstanding client service to all its clients and we do our utmost to treat all our clients fairly. When a problem arises or something goes wrong, we need you to let us know as soon as possible. This gives us the opportunity to investigate your concerns objectively, address the issues you have raised, and to try to satisfy your concerns. It also helps us to improve our standards.

What to do if you have concerns or a complaint about our service

- 2.1 In the first instance, if you have concerns you will probably find it helpful to discuss these with someone from the team dealing with your matter. This might be the individual working on your matter day to day (the matter manager), their supervising partner (the matter partner), or the person responsible for managing the firm’s relationship with you (the client relationship partner). You can find their contact details in the firm’s Letter of Engagement sent to you at the start of your matter and you may contact them either by telephone, by email, or in writing.
- 2.2 The lawyer looking into your concerns will acknowledge receipt as soon as possible. They may also need to ask you for further clarification about your concerns if further information is required.
- 2.3 It may be possible to offer a solution to resolve your concerns quickly and informally. The type of solution offered and the manner in which it is proposed will depend on the individual circumstances. If appropriate, the lawyer may send you a detailed reply to your concerns or suggest a meeting. When addressing your concerns in this way, we will aim to provide you with a substantive reply or proposals within 28 days of receiving the necessary details of your concerns.
- 2.4 If your concerns are not resolved to your satisfaction, you may ask that they be referred to one of the firm’s complaints managers to be reviewed as a formal complaint. Alternatively, if for any reason you feel it is appropriate to raise your concerns outside of the team dealing with your matter, you may refer them directly to one of the complaints managers straight away, to be reviewed as a formal complaint. In either case, if you have not already done so, you will need to set out your complaint, preferably in writing. The firm’s complaints managers are:

Review by a complaints manager

- 3.1 The complaints manager allocated to deal with your complaint will acknowledge it in writing (usually by email if that is your preferred mode of contact) within three working days of receiving details of your complaint.
- 3.2 The complaints manager will arrange for an investigation and will aim to write to you with a full response to your complaint by no later than 56 days from when your concerns or complaint were first raised with the firm. That response will summarise the findings of the investigation, the firm's conclusions on your complaint, and the solution proposed.
- 3.3 If it is not possible to issue a detailed response within 56 days, which may be the case if the matter has first been raised as a concern with the team, the allocated complaints manager will update you on the progress of the investigation and provide an estimate of the likely time frame for issuing a final written response.
- 3.4 If the complaints manager considers that your complaint would be better addressed by a different means, for example, in a meeting, they will contact you to propose this.
- 3.5 You will not be charged for the handling of your complaint.

Referring your complaint to the Legal Ombudsman

- 4.1 If we are unable to resolve your complaint to your satisfaction within eight weeks of you first raising your concerns or complaint with us, you can ask the Legal Ombudsman to consider your complaint.
- 4.2 The Legal Ombudsman is an independent complaints body which was established under the Legal Services Act 2007 and deals with legal services complaints. Note that the Legal Ombudsman may consider complaints from prospective clients as well as existing or former clients, and from beneficiaries of trusts and estates, but may be unable to accept complaints from certain types of clients (for example, if the client does not meet the Legal Ombudsman's criteria for being a micro-enterprise or small business).
- 4.3 You may wish to submit your complaint to the Legal Ombudsman via their online form at: Make A Complaint | Legal Ombudsman. Alternatively, you can submit your concerns via PO Box 6167, Slough SL1 0EH.
- 4.4 You will normally need to bring a complaint to the Legal Ombudsman within:
 - (i) six months of receiving a written response from us about your complaint; and
 - (ii) within a year of the date of the act or omission about which you are complaining or within a year of when you should reasonably have realised there was cause for complaint.
- 4.5 For further information you should contact the Legal Ombudsman via enquiries@legalombudsman.org.uk, by telephone 0300 555 0333 (or +44 121 245 3050 if overseas), or go to www.legalombudsman.org.uk.
- 4.6 We are obliged to point out to you that there are alternative complaints bodies, such as ProMediate (www.ProMediate.co.uk), who can deal with complaints about legal services where all the parties agree to use such a scheme. The firm submits to the jurisdiction of the Legal Ombudsman but does not agree to use ProMediate.

Complaints about bills

- 5.1 Please also use this procedure if you have a concern or complaint about a bill. In addition, you have the right to object to a bill by applying to the court for an assessment of the bill under Part III of the Solicitors Act 1974.

If you apply to the court, the Legal Ombudsman (see paragraph 4.1 above) may decide not to deal with a complaint about the bill.

Referring a complaint to the Solicitors Regulation Authority (“SRA”)

- 6.1 Subject to paragraphs 4.2 and 5.1 above, complaints about poor service should be directed to the Legal Ombudsman. If you are concerned about matters such as the conduct of an individual or the firm, you should report these concerns to the SRA. Details of how to do this can be found at: www.sra.org.uk/consumers/problems.
- 6.2 The SRA can be contacted via their website: <https://www.sra.org.uk/home/contact-us/> or by the following means:
- 6.2.1 Tel: 0370 606 2555 / +44 (0)121 329 6800
 - 6.2.2 Fax: +44 (0)121 616 1999
 - 6.2.3 Post: Solicitors Regulation Authority, The Cube, 199 Wharfside Street, Birmingham, B1 1RN.
